SUMMER PROGRAM

PASTORAL CONGREGATIONS: MOVING BOLDLY INTO THE FUTURE
July 8-12, 2019
The Very Reverend Kevin E. Martin & The Rev. John Wengrovius
In this seminar, we will examine the challenge facing these congregations, identify key stabilizing factors and strengths of healthy Pastoral Size churches, address revealing diagnostic tools, and discuss effective strategies for moving faithfully into the future.

LECTIO DIVINA: THE THEOLOGY & PRACTICE OF SPIRITUAL READING
July 15-19, 2019
Hans Boersma, PhD
The twelfth-century Carthusian monk, Guigo II, famously comments, “What is the use of spending one’s time in lectio continua [continuous reading], running through the lives and sayings of holy men, unless we can extract nourishment from them by chewing and digesting this food so that its strength can pass into our inmost heart?” In this course we will take our cue from Guigo’s recommendation of chewing and digesting the words of Scripture in lectio divina (sacred reading).

HEARTS BENT TO GOD: SOURCES, METHODS & ENDS OF ASCETICAL THEOLOGY
July 22-26, 2019
The Reverend Greg Peters, PhD, SMD
Historically “ascetical theology” concerned itself with the means by which sanctity of life could be acquired and was viewed as a subdivision of moral theology. However, the discipline was approached from a number of different angles and employed a range of methodologies. This course will examine these past ways of studying ascetical theology while also investigating and establishing a foundation for how to study and practice ascetical theology today.

ORIGEN OF ALEXANDRIA
July 22-26, 2019
The Very Reverend Dr. John Behr
Origen set the pace for many theological developments, good and bad, in the Christian East, just as Augustine did in the West. This course will proceed through a close reading of selected texts from a variety of Origen’s writings and the student’s own research project, examining an aspect of Origen’s writings or thought, engaging with a broad range of secondary material.
